Beyond Romantic Ecocriticism: Toward Urbanatural Roosting (Nineteenth Century Major Lives and Letters) Ashton Nichols

The current emphasis on evolutionary ecology does not arise solely from a 'green' sense of the interdependence between organisms and their environments; it derives from Romantic and Victorian thinkers. Charting a pervasive paradigm shift, Ashton Nichols chronicles the revolutionary turn away from the view of Enlightenment 'Nature' as static and separate from humans as it moved towards the Romantic 'nature' characterized by dynamic links among all living things. This book links the eco-awareness of William Blake, William Wordsworth, and Percy Shelley to the eco-anxieties of Tennyson, Matthew Arnold, and Thomas Hardy in order to draw new conclusions about twenty-first century ideas of nature.
